

Conference Participation

Content

1. Definition of “conference”.
2. Types of the conference.
3. The purpose of the conference participation.
4. Typical conference organization.
5. Requirements for conference papers.

Active vocabulary

- researcher
- to participate in the conference
- to present the research
- time slot in a conference for presenting a paper
- conference proceedings
- acceptance of papers for publication
- deadline
- schedule

Active vocabulary

- speaker
- face-to-face conversation
- exchange a variety of experiences
- establish personal relationships
- lay the foundation for future collaboration
- paper for the proceedings
- participate in the session

Active vocabulary

- call for papers
- objectives of the planned conference
- scientific committee
- general requirements for submissions
- formatting requirements
- committee for refereeing
- referee report
- acceptance message
- rejection message

Active vocabulary

- confirm payment of the registration fee
- receive a badge
- plenary session
- opening and closing of the conference
- panel discussion
- invitation to social events

What is conference?

Conference its the most general term to indicate a meeting for discussion – most commonly adopted by associations and organizations for their regular meetings.

The most traditional type of presentation at the conference is a paper followed by questions.

News conference,

an announcement to the press (print, radio, television) with the expectation of questions, about the announced matter

WORKSHOP, a brief intensive educational program for a small group of people that focuses on techniques and skills in a particular field.

In scientific community, it is adopted to describe meetings of small groups of specialists who come together for concerted activities or discussion

The purpose of conference participati

1

to get informed about the state-of-the-art

2

to present
research, and get reactions from others working in the same domain

3

to have paper published in the conference proceedings

Academic conferences typically fall into three categories

- themed conference, small conferences organized around a particular topic;
- general conference, a conference with a wider focus, with sessions on a wide variety of topics.
- professional conference, large conferences not limited to academics but with academically related issues.